MOSSA DESIGN

From Antiquity to French Luxury

Mossa Design collections revisit the classics through a modern, refined, and luminous lens. They invite you on a singular journey of style.

It all begins with an odyssey through ancient civilizations – Greek, Roman, Egyptian, Persian – whose powerful aesthetic shaped the Mediterranean world over the centuries, later celebrated in the 19th century and inspiring the Empire, Napoleon III, and even Art Deco styles. Mossa Design embraces and reinterprets this heritage in its own way, paying tribute to the very essence of universal beauty – the purity of lines, the harmony of forms – enriching it with a distinct vision of French luxury, where timeless elegance meets the sensuous depth of materials. This creative vision is guided by a meticulous attention to materials and artisanal craftsmanship.

NEPHTYS

The Nephtys armoire is a refined piece, distinguished by the meticulous care devoted to every detail. Its embossed papyrus motif evokes a sense of reverie and recalls the splendor of ancient Egypt.

Nephtys is one of the five primordial deities of ancient Egypt, born of the union between Geb (the earth) and Nut (the sky) after the creation of the world. As such, she holds a central place in Egyptian mythology. Sometimes referred to as the goddess of the sycamore—a sacred tree in Egyptian culture—she was believed, in the afterlife, to provide shade, nourishment, and refreshment. The Egyptians saw the sycamore as a symbol of divine protection and a source of life. These attributes express not only the goddess's generosity but also the deep reverence the ancient Egyptians held for nature and its beneficence in their daily lives.

The Nephtys collection draws its inspiration from the art and culture of ancient Egypt, celebrating vegetal ornaments, floral motifs, and stylized leaves. These elements embody fertility and prosperity—two fundamental concepts in that civilization. The harmonious interplay of organic forms and smooth surfaces creates a refined world, reminiscent of grand palaces, where every detail is conceived to offer an exceptional visual and tactile experience.

The Nephtys collection draws inspiration from the art and culture of ancient Egypt, where vegetal ornaments symbolized the promise of nature's abundance in the afterlife. The intricate organic forms evoke a sense of renewal and lush expanses. Smooth surfaces contrast with stylized detailing, forming subtle references to Art Deco and creating an atmosphere reminiscent of grand palatial elegance.

M A R I N A

Blending the majestic harmony of the Empire style with the distinguished codes of nautical design, the Marina collection is a celebration of aesthetics that transcends fleeting trends.

During the reign of Napoleon I, Antiquity emerged as both a philosophical inspiration and an aesthetic model. The ideals of classical beauty gave rise to what became known as the Empire style—so named in honor of the Emperor—which emphasized simplicity and the purity of form and ornament. Defined by formal rigor and a quest for perfection, this style reflects the grandeur and stability that characterized the Napoleonic Empire. Furniture, often crafted in mahogany veneer, was adorned with gilded bronze appliques and geometric lines. These decorative features, at once refined and luxurious, embody the era's prevailing taste for elegance and functionality.

Gustave Flaubert, the great French writer, evokes it in L'Education Sentimentale: "The armchairs, the consoles, the tables— all the furnishings, in the Empire style, had something imposing and diplomatic about them."

This observation perfectly captures the visual and symbolic impact of the Empire style, which masterfully combines majesty and refinement.

ARGOS

The Argos desk invites one to travel, embodying the refined aesthetics of ancient Greece while meeting the functional demands of a contemporary workspace.

In Greek mythology, Argos was the name of the galley aboard which Jason and the Argonauts voyaged from Pagasae on their quest for the Golden Fleece. This legendary vessel, crafted with the help of the goddess Athena, symbolizes ingenuity and exploration—qualities that the Argos line seeks to evoke in every piece.

Inspired by the elegant forms and harmonious proportions of Hellenistic temples and sculptures, the Argos furniture collection subtly blends traditional lines with a modern, sophisticated presence.

Each creation is designed to offer both refined aesthetics and optimal functionality, reflecting a perfect balance between past and present. Materials are carefully selected for their quality and durability, ensuring that every piece is not only beautiful but also resilient and enduring.

C N O S S O S

The Cnossos armchair captivates with its sculptural design and sophisticated finishes. Its enveloping backrest in fine wood, accented with golden detailing, forms a bold and elegant silhouette.

Cnossos was the heart of the Minoan civilization—a brilliant and original culture that flourished in ancient Crete and took its name from the legendary King Minos, who, according to tradition, built his labyrinthine palace there. Renowned for its innovations in architecture, art, and maritime trade, this civilization astonished the world with the vitality of its remains. Cretan art continues to enchant through the modernity of its colors and compositions, depicting scenes of nature and daily life with striking realism. Archaeologists uncovered sumptuous frescoes illustrating vivid marine landscapes, religious ceremonies, and everyday activities, all captured with remarkable refinement and life.

The Cnossos collection embodies the meeting between the forces of nature and the spirit of Odyssean exploration. Through raw forms and organic textures, it seeks a purity that turns simplicity into essence—a tribute to the image of rocky islands emerging from a calm, radiant sea. The furniture in this collection reflects the wild, unspoiled beauty of ancient Crete, where nature and civilization blended in perfect harmony to create a culture both unique and captivating.

CHATEAUBRIAND

Inspired by the work of the great French writer, the Chateaubriand sofa captivates with the poetic aura it exudes and the exquisite use of elm burl marquetry adorning its sides.

Through his genius, Viscount François-René de Chateaubriand can be regarded as the father of Romanticism in France. His depictions of nature, his profound exploration of human emotion, and his attraction to mystery and melancholic grandeur made him a model for an entire generation of Romantic writers. Under his pen, Descartes' phrase "I think, therefore I am" transforms into "I feel, therefore I am." These emotional movements—between lyricism and simplicity—have inspired the Chateaubriand line, which seeks to translate into material form this delicate balance between grandeur and restraint, through intricate, refined interlaces and pure, harmonious lines.

Precisely carved with motifs drawn from nature, mythology, and architecture, each arabesque, scroll, and figure reflects the opulence of the Sun King's era, that of Louis XIV. These motifs are more than decoration—they tell stories and embody exceptional craftsmanship.

HESPÉRIDES

The Hesperides TV shelf unit combines sophistication and functionality through its sleek design and elegant lines. Its noble wood structure, enhanced with gilded brass finishes and lacquered panels, makes it a centerpiece in any luxurious interior.

In Greek mythology, the Hesperides are nymphs of the West—mythical beings often depicted as beautiful maidens who embody the transition from day to night. They dwell in a divine garden at the western edge of the world, known as the Garden of the Hesperides, a magical and sacred place inaccessible to mortals. At its heart stands a mystical tree bearing golden apples, said to grant immortality. The Hesperides serve as its guardians, protectors of this celestial orchard. It is this pursuit of serenity, on the threshold of the world, that defines the essence of the Hesperides line.

This quest for harmony is reflected in every aspect of the design, creating a sanctuary of calm and balance far from the turbulence of daily life. Each design element is carefully selected to evoke fluidity and equilibrium, shaping an atmosphere where every detail contributes to a sense of well-being. The experience becomes inward, inviting relaxation and meditation.

PHIDIAS

Phidias is one of the most renowned sculptors, goldsmiths, and painters of early Greek Classicism. As André Malraux wrote, Phidias “invented the forms that express the divine.”

The discovery of the ruins of Herculaneum and Pompeii in the eighteenth century revealed artistic and architectural treasures that profoundly transformed the stylistic codes of the time. Ancient art inspired the movement that would be called Neoclassicism, leading cabinetmakers to abandon older references in favor of straight, geometric forms.

The Phidias chair draws from the graceful geometry of the iconic Louis XVI medallion chair, merging furniture and sculpture, wood and metal, in a gesture that revitalizes the classical ideal. This creation pays tribute to artistic tradition while introducing a modern touch—the velvet and palm motif contrasting beautifully with the solidity of its wooden structure.

From the first sketch drawn in the Paris workshop to manufacturing entirely carried out in France, Mossa Design continues its pursuit of perfection by collaborating with skilled artisans—cabinetmakers, bronziers, and master upholsterers—who embody the tradition of fine craftsmanship. Elevating wood grains, shaping brass, tailoring exquisite fabrics, perfecting varnishes and lacquers—together, with passion and precision, they explore, refine, and patiently perfect each detail.

Working at a deliberate pace that allows beauty to emerge, they bring to life furniture of true character and distinct personality. These are noble, enduring objects, designed to be disassembled and repaired when needed, passed down from generation to generation. Each creation is bespoke, personalized to its owner’s taste, and crafted with an attention to detail and harmony that allows it to blend seamlessly into its intended environment.

Because, above all, what matters most is that the encounter with you is perfect.
